

Elicia Yoffee has a breadth of experiences in the corporate manufacturing industry, academia, local and national government, and non-profit sectors. She has extensive practice in designing and implementing work in a fast-paced manufacturing environment as well as a working understanding of lean manufacturing methods, process optimization, change management, and personnel and project management techniques. Elicia has worked for numerous non-profits and government organizations in both official and volunteer capacities. She has developed and implemented trainings on cultural competency, restorative justice, non-violent communication and more. She has also conducted stakeholder mappings, needs assessments, and program monitoring and evaluation.

Elicia Yoffee holds a Master's in Conflict Analysis and Resolution from the Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter School of Peace and Conflict Resolution at George Mason University. She also holds a Bachelor's in Science in Chemical Engineering and a Minor in Sociology from the Pennsylvania State University. She currently works as an Associate for Symphonic Strategies, where she works with non-profit, for-profit, and government organizations to advance strategic planning and training initiatives.